

“I will start with saying that buying this Steinway designed Boston piano has truly changed the way we do piano.

I never wanted a new piano, but my children’s piano teacher had been gently reminding me that my kids could not continue to progress if they had faulty equipment. She urged me to contact Christy and that she would help me make a wise decision. I had never purchased a new piano before so I had never been in a piano store. When we visited, Christy allowed me to sit down and try every piano in the store. She demonstrated the different ways the pianos are made and answered every single question I had. I hesitated to purchase a new piano without having my children try out the different models, as they now practice at least an hour each per day so the instrument they play is very important. She did not pressure me at all to make a decision right away, but offered to have both children come into the store and try out all of the pianos themselves. She even allowed them to sit and do a duet on the concert Steinway piano!!! It was something to remember. I allowed the kids to play their songs without telling them which piano was the more expensive one. Christy had “filled me in” on the better model so I was aware, but my kids had no idea which one was superior-until they played it and they both chose the Boston model! This is the one she had recommended!!!

Not only did Christy give us a reasonable price for our old piano (and they picked it up for us), but she worked out a payment plan that made our purchase possible without interest! The brand new beautiful Boston piano was delivered to our home and set up exactly where we wanted it a few weeks later. The gentlemen who delivered it were so polite and neat and knew exactly what they were doing. They gave us many tips to take care of our piano and left everything spotless when they left.

Christy has been in touch with us several times to make sure that we are happy with our piano. I never tire of telling her the latest stories of how enthusiastic our children are to play piano now. Our home is now filled with beautiful music! My daughter has been commenting on how much better her fingers are doing now that she doesn’t have to press so hard on the keys!

My husband and I are so proud that we have provided our children with the best piano we could ever buy for them. In one month, it has paid for itself in the joy and success it has brought to my children. My husband and I are enjoying it quite a bit too.”

Thank you, Christy!
